Local members of the Royal Arcanum are interested in the fact that the Supreme Council will hold its special meeting to reconsider the new rates at Put-in-Bay, O., Aug. 30, according to an announcement by Supreme Regent Wiggins. Up to date the Supreme Regent has received signed requests for a special meeting from 42 supreme representatives. Unless the general demand for a revision of the new rates is heeded the protesting members will probably attempt to have the matter settled in court. If the new rates are withdrawn at the special session, the question of satisfactory rates to be substituted for them will be a subject for much discussion. The coming session will take place at the Hotel Victor, and over 100 Supreme representatives will attend. It is thought. The expense of the meeting will be about $12,000. The proceedings will be secret. The revised rates, as announced some time ago, met with considerable opposition in the local council, as it did in most others, and resolutions were adopted advocating some other plan of assessment, that would not put too great a burden upon the older members of the order.

There is a possibility that Methuen may, after the redistricting which is to follow the census, takes place, be taken out of the six councillor district and put into the fifth or Essex district. While the Fifth is known as the Essex district, it is a fact that the county as a whole has not been in one councillor district since 1875. While the law provides that each councillor district shall be made up of five senatorial districts and as nearly evenly as possible on the basis of legal voters, the fifth district in 1875 had 33,072 voters, a larger number than any of the other districts. The arrangement stood until the redistricting in 1876. From that time down the section around Lawrence has been separated from the rest of the county so far as the election of councillor is concerned. That year Lawrence, Andover, Methuen and North Andover were put in the sixth district, which extended from Lowell way out to Marlboro. Ten years later the only change in the fifth district was to substitute North Andover for Lawrence in the sixth district. At the last redistricting in 1896 there seems to have been a combination of circumstances making Essex county a councillor district in itself. In the first place the making up of the Essex-Middlesex senatorial district, and the provision that five senatorial districts should make up a councillor district and that a senatorial district should not be divided brought several Middlesex towns into the fifth district. In second place the sixth district was reduced so in number of legal voters that more Essex county towns had to be put in to make up. Bradford, which was annexed to Haverhill, could not be kept in the sixth district, as a city or town could not be divided. Accordingly North Andover was put back where it had been 10 years before. Bradford and Townsend were added. In this way the fifth district took in 70,420 and the sixth 70,696 voters. It is probable that if the make-up of two county senatorial districts can be avoided the whole of Essex county can be put into one councillor district, as it is expected that the Essex county cities will show considerable increase in population, and the Middlesex county towns in the Essex-Middlesex senatorial district, North Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield and Woburn, it is anticipated will show a lesser growth. The matter as to whether to come before a special redistricting committee of the next legislature, who are to make up the eight districts in the whole state as nearly equitably as possible.

CRICKET

LAWRENCE IS SECOND PLACE IN CRICKET RACE.

Lawrence jumped into second place in the cricket league Saturday by defeating Brockton, 113 to 109.

The victory was a notable one for the Lawrence eleven. The game was played at Brockton and the home team batted first. A total of 109 runs was scored. The time remaining for Lawrence to overcome this lead was only one hour and 45 minutes. The Lawrence delegation on the grounds practically gave up all hope of winning the game, but drooping spirits were revived when Gill made 22 and Woodcock 61 not out. Hill was sent in when Gill was bowled out and he made 39 before being touched out by Grimley. Longbottom was bowled out by Grimley before making a tally, but McIntyre scored 10 not out, and Lawrence stopped playing 15 minutes before the time limit with only three wickets down. Six men, Hodgson, Wainwright, Walker, Barker, O'Brien and Wade did not bat.

Bowler was in fine form, taking six wickets, for 23 runs. The Lawrence delegation was royally entertained after the game by the Brockton team. The score:

LAWRENCE CRICKET TEAM PULLS BROCKTON DOWN.

The Brockton Cricket club after having taken the sweets of occupying the top position in the cricket league for a whole week, was ruthlessly thrwn down to fourth place by Lawrence last Saturday, being defeated by seven wickets. Lawrence making the journey to Brockton to do the trick, thus placing Lynn on the top, while they went up to second place. The game will be remembered by Brockton, as it looked to be quite easy, after compiling 109 runs to get out Lawrence before they could make that total. The batting, however, proved to be too good for the bowling. Gill and Woodcock collaring it very early, the former making a nice 39 before he was bowled by Orton. R. Hill, upon joining Woodcock, had lots of confidence and ran up 26 runs before he was bowled by Grimley. Woodcock was now so well settled at the wicket that it only became a question of how much they could win by. McIntyre assisting Woodcock to pass the score, the latter being bowled 61 not out. Among the bowlers, Walker was the star, with 6 for 23.

While Brockton was struggling to retain the top place, the West India and Boston teams were fighting hard to see who should occupy the last rung of the league ladder, as they have both been tied for that position the past month. Boston was successful through the batting of Keene and Perkins and by the fine bowling of Haslam, who took 4 for 18. For the West India team, the two Isaacs and De Silva put up a gallant struggle, but, being badly supported, had to accept a defeat.

It was a great game at Lowell between the Buntings and the Mohairs, the former winning by 61 to 36, on the Mohair crease. Long before the game commenced, there was a crowd of spectators who not only talked up their favorites, but put up their money as well, quite a deal changing hands. The game from beginning to end was a bowlers' game as there were but three men in both innings able to get in double figures. For the Buntings, Rowley was double scorer, making 21 before he stepped out to an enter who took him caught by Priestly off Mosley's bowling, Ogden carrying out his bat for 10, the side being out for 61. For the Mohairs, Priestly made a fine 18, which was the only score of note, as the bowling and fielding of the Buntings was glib-edged. Ogden bringing the inning to an abrupt termination by his hat trick, three wickets by three successive balls, his bowling average being 7 for 13 while for the Mohairs, Mosley took 5 for 5. This makes three wins in succession for the Buntings and places them in the third place in the league.

East Boston, with a weak team, but lots of luck, managed to defeat the Merrimack by 101 to 67. Coates and Rowlands making 67 between them, scored, but both men should have been out early as they gave good chances which were not accepted. Haddon for the losers put up the best game for the day, making 31, and carrying his bat for a faultless inning. Highlandville and Lynn C. and A. had a fine set-to at Highlandville, which resulted in Lynn's downfall, Highlandville declaring their innings closed with 96 for 9 wickets, managing to get out Lynn for 40 runs. For Highlandville, Wallis put up a fine game, his 44 not out being excellent, while Walton made a most useful 26 before he was stumped by Bottomley. For Lynn, E. Gorse and his 28 runs, Briggs being the only one able to get the coveted double figures. Among the bowlers, T. Farrand was easily the star, getting 3 wickets for 2 runs. Shepherson taking 6 for 23. For the losers, Edgar got 4 for 21.

The West India Wanderers had no trouble whatever with the Caribbeans, winning easily, 87 to 14, Wilson getting 6 wickets for 5 runs.

In the Merrimack division, Zion came near a defeat at the hands of Methuen, and they just managed to win by the small margin of two runs. W. Croft giving a fine exhibition of batting, for his 28 runs, Briggs being Methuen's top-scorer. The Lynn Wanderers Reserve, by defeating the Everetts, is now in the middle with 6 won and 2 lost. Wright, Burke and Hall making double figures for the winners, Allen being top scorer for the losers with 17. ing their innings closed with 96 for 9 wickets, managing to get out Lynn for 40 runs. For Highlandville, Wallis put up a fine game, his 44 not out being excellent, while Walton made a most useful 26 before he was stumped by Bottomley. For Lynn, E. Gorse and his 28 runs, Briggs being the only one able to get the coveted double figures. Among the bowlers, T. Farrand was easily the star, getting 3 wickets for 2 runs. Shepherson taking 6 for 23. For the losers, Edgar got 4 for 21.

KEEPING TAB ON THE WORLD

Gloomily the Peace Conference Begins at Portsmouth, the Envoys of Japan and Russia Having Been Introduced by the President at Oyster Bay—Jerome Defies All Party Machines. Edison Perfects His Auto Truck Battery—New Orleans Asks Uncle Sam to Handle Fever Quarantine.

POLITICAL

Jerome as an Independent.

A most interesting declaration of independence has been given out by District Attorney Jerome of New York, in which he announces his candidacy for re-election, providing he is nominated by popular petition, which, under the election law, requires 2,000 signatures and not by any party machine. Although he is a Democrat in national politics, Mr. Jerome says that national issues have no real application to state or local affairs, and he declares it to be one of the greatest evils of our time "that small groups of men have, and not infrequently a single man, obtained control of the executive machinery of party organization and nominating conventions and stand between the public servants and the voters." He says that a man who works with such a group comes under obligations which cannot be disregarded and that he cannot take office by their favor and still be free.

He does not propose to remain in office by the grace of any man or group of men such as he indicates. In other words, Mr. Jerome is evidently trying to find out whether or not the people of New York will elect a man to office who has not first obtained permission from the Tammany chief or the Republican chairman, to be a candidate. Thus a fundamental political issue is raised entirely aside from the question of Mr. Jerome's personal equation. It strikes at the system of machine domination, to which much of our municipal corruption is attributed.

Mr. Jerome said that it was the sense of degradation resulting from the consciousness of being ruled by crooks that was going to start the fight he thought was approaching, and all that was needed was a man capable of moral leadership. He spoke of the spirit of unrest throughout the country and the vast literature of graft which had sprung up in the last few years.

Wilson at Oyster Bay.
Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has called on the president and had a talk with him about the programme of reforms which has been devised. He told the president that leaks from the bureau of statistics were no longer possible. He said it was no longer a one man affair, but would be run by four well trained scientists, two of whom are southerners. The secretary denied the report that he was about to resign and said he would stick to his post until the department was purged. He said all of the trouble originated in the quarrel of two gamblers over a woman.

Weaver Drafts Employees.

A new and powerful weapon in the campaign for a pure ballot in the city of Philadelphia was forged by Mayor Weaver's order requiring all municipal employees to report not later than Aug. 9 the cases of illegal registration in their respective election divisions. This will test the loyalty of each official to the cause of good government. The reports of fraudulent registration have continued, and in several precincts the entire election board was said to be mythical.

Depew Promises to Explain.

On his return from Europe Senator Depew told the reporters that he had nothing to say except that he was coming home to stay in the storm center and that in a short time he would make public a full statement of his connection with the Depew Improvement company and the Equitable loan. He admitted that he had subscribed $1,500 for a copy of "Fads and Fancies," but denies that he did so under pressure. He said that it is his custom to devote each year at least $1,000 to help "the boys."

A Negro Dominates Wilmington.

By a curious situation in the municipal government of Wilmington, Del., Thomas E. Postles, a negro supporter of Addicks, has become the virtual ruler of the city. In the council are thirteen members, seven being Republicans and six Democrats. Postles by making a deal with the Democrats has elected five of his friends to city offices, two of whom are negroes, in return for which he prevents the election of Republican successors to two Democratic officials. He holds the balance of power and is the first negro to be elected by popular vote in Delaware, being supported by white Democrats and opposed by those of his own race. When an appeal was made for a majority rule, Postles replied, "But I am the majority." One interesting feature is the election of Joseph Postles to be city treasurer's clerk, in which capacity he will make out checks for 400 white schoolteachers of the city.

Insurance Legislation Demanded.

Insurance Commissioner Cutting of Massachusetts in his annual report handles the insurance irregularities without gloves and asserts that the legislature must act to safeguard future investments. His table shows the lack of conservatism not only in the management of the Equitable, but of the Mutual and New York Life. He refers to the Equitable as the great "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Insurance company." In general Mr. Cutting thinks that these disclosures show the spirit of the times to be a mad rush for wealth in which the moral vision of business men is blurred. He says that it is an indictment of the business and commercial practices which have developed in the last quarter of a century.

A Public Ownership Sweep.

In his address at Boston at the outing of the Tammany club Mayor Dunne of Chicago said that he had found it to be the rule that where utilities are furnished by private companies they cost from 50 to 100 per cent more than when furnished by public companies. After telling how the city of Chicago was planning a municipal street railway line, the mayor said that a wave of public sentiment in favor of public ownership of public utilities was sweeping over the land. He thought that Chicago would have achieved its purpose within a few months and have the proud distinction of being the first city in the United States to be in actual ownership of its street car system, and when that is an assured success he thought it would mean that hundreds of other cities would follow her example.

FOREIGN

Arrival of Russia's Envoy.

Serge Witte arrived at New York Aug. 2 with his suit and lodged at the St. Regis hotel. He denied the report that he had said anything about the Japanese conditions being intolerable and gave out a statement full of friendly feeling for the American people and pleasant words for his gallant adversary, Japan. M. Witte is a large bodied, good natured man who gives the impression of great strength and self possession. After a day spent in sight seeing about New York he went to Oyster Bay to call on the president, and next day both the Russian and Japanese envoys were taken from New York to Oyster Bay on the cruisers Tacoma and Chattanooga, respectively.

Third Assistant Secretary of State Peirce on board the yacht Sylph preceded the envoys, and on arriving at Oyster Bay an ambassadorial salute of nineteen guns was fired by the Galveston, Mayflower and Dolphin waiting there. Mr. Peirce then went from the Sylph to the Mayflower and was followed by the president, after which the Japanese came aboard to be presented, and then the Russians. The president in turn introduced the Japanese and Russians, and a luncheon followed in the cabin of the Mayflower. Then the Japanese mission went on board the Dolphin and the Russian mission on board the Mayflower, and these ships, convoyed by the cruiser Galveston, sailed for Portsmouth, where the peace conference is now in progress.

The determination of Japan to retain her hold on Manchuria was indicated by the hasty and secret preparations for the construction of the railway which now runs from Fusan to Seoul, in Korea, across the Yalu to a junction with the Chinese Eastern railway at Liaoyang. It is reported that rush orders have been placed with American firms in the last few days for 350 steel bridges, 150 locomotives and 2,000 cars. The road is to be known as the Seoul-Wiji line.

Japs Claim All Sakhalin.

Official proclamation has been made by Lieutenant Hariguchi extending the military jurisdiction of Japan over the entire island of Sakhalin. The possession of this island places the whole Amur region of Siberia under Japanese influence. It is learned that on July 26 a Japanese force seized the port of Castries, on the Siberian coast, about 100 miles south of the mouth of the Amur. It is a terminus of the Sakhalin cable.

Famine Faces Russia.

The central statistical committee at St. Petersburg reports that the harvests in forty-one of the sixty provinces of European Russia are a complete failure. In the other provinces the condition of crops is far below the average. This indicates the imminence of a serious famine.

Wants to Close the Baltic.

Emperor William's recent cruise in the Baltic and his calls on Russia, Denmark and Sweden is interpreted as a preliminary move toward the closing of the Baltic sea so far as the warships of other countries are concerned. The announcement of the coming cruise of the British squadron in that sea is believed to have caused the emperor much annoyance.

Czar Against Peace Concessions.

In the St. Petersburg Official Messenger appeared an imperial telegram sent by the czar in reply to an address from Khabarovka expressing his purpose to continue the war until the enemy is crushed and not to think of the concession of territory or the payment of any indemnity. This coming immediately after the secret interview with Emperor William caused it to be taken seriously, and the conclusion was that if the Japanese make such demands at the peace conference M. Witte would break off negotiations. At the same time General Lnevitch has telegraphed the czar that the army is ready for any task. The general denies the published report that his army has been surrounded by the Japanese.

Kaiser Against Republic.

During his visit at Copenhagen Emperor William is reported to have said that he would support Prince Charles for the throne of Norway. He added that if Prince Charles does not become king Norway will be a republic. He preferred a monarchy. Christian Lundeberg is head of the new coalition ministry at Stockholm, Sweden.

LEGAL-CRIMINAL

Equitable Restitution Suits.

Attorney General Mayer of New York has begun suits against the Equitable Life Assurance society and the fifty prominent men who composed its board of directors prior to the recent shakeup. The court is asked to require that the directors account for their management and disposition of funds and property, that they be compelled to pay back any money acquired by themselves or lost or wasted through violation of their duties, that those guilty of misconduct be removed and that the surplus be credited to and distributed solely among the policy holders. There is nothing in this that will disturb the Ryan management.

The legislative investigation committee met and organized at Albany and began its probing of the methods of the Equitable.

John Hyde Coming Back.

In response to urgent cable messages from Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, John Hyde, the former statistician of the department, telegraphed from England that he would return to this country as soon as possible. He is expected to assist materially in the grand jury investigation of the crop report scandal. The grand jury has adjourned to Aug. 15.

Paterson's Mayor a Forger.

William H. Belcher, Paterson's "reform" mayor, has been exposed as a perpetrator of forgeries aggregating $50,000 or more. His favorite method of stealing appears to have been the palming off of fake mortgages. Mayor Belcher had been looked upon as a model of upright and pure life.

Editor Criswell a Suicide.

Robert W. Criswell, editor of the New Yorker, who was recently summoned on a libel charge by Congressman Rhinock of Kentucky because of a slurping reference to Miss Alice Roosevelt in connection with her visit to Cincinnati, committed suicide by throwing himself in front of a subway train at New York. He was once connected with the organization known as the Social Editors' society, which had been securing subscriptions to a book known as "America's Foremost Families." This was under investigation by the district attorney.

EXECUTIVE

Treasury Deficit For July.

The first month of the new fiscal year which ended July 31 showed that the government had spent $13,857,866 more than it took in. This is $3,532,746 less than for the corresponding period of last year, but the deficit at that time was partly due to the purchase of the Panama canal and the fair loan. The receipts for the month were $49,273,133.

Why Pathologist Moore Quit.

Correspondence given out by order of the president explains the sudden resignation of Professor George T. Moore, the department of agriculture's pathologist, whose name was connected with a company organized to exploit nitro cultures for soil. The charge that Professor Moore was unduly interested in one or more firms was contained in a letter to the president from the Axtell-Rush Publishing company of Pittsburg, publishers of the National Stockman and Farmer. The matter was promptly referred to Secretary Wilson, and Professor Moore's resignation followed shortly. In resigning, the professor said that he had returned the stock of the nitro culture company which had been reserved for him.

More Russian Immigration.

Commissioner of Immigration Sergeant reports that the total number of immigrants for the last fiscal year was 1,027,421, as compared with 812,870 in 1904, while 11,566 were deported. The Russian immigration shows an increase of 29 per cent, the total number being 184,897.

Filipino Agitators Warned.

Governor Wright in a conference with the leading Filipinos at Manila denounced the independence agitation at this time and said that the sympathy shown for the ladrones was degrading commercial and political development. The government has given $80,000 to buy rice for the starving peasants in Cebu, where the drought has destroyed the crops, and the merchants of Manila have given $6,000 for relief.

SARATOGA IN MID-SUMMER.

America's Real Pleasure Spa.
The season is on! Saratoga, the one joyous, only true pleasure spot in the world, is now in its glory. Thousands have already gathered at the famous Saratoga Springs and its line of magnificent hotels presents a scene gorgeous and dazzling in the extreme. Early morning sees handsome equipages driving back and forth; Congress Spring Park assemblies hundreds seated at tables, talking and sipping the invigorating and health-giving waters. Noon, the cars and the carriages are traveling in the same direction—"off for the races!" Have you ever witnessed the thrilling sport, which means so much to the summer Saratogian? Enthusiasm! Why, there is nothing on earth to compare with a Saratoga race.

Thousands of people, men and women, young and old, are in the grand stands. The paddock contains a usual throng of inside devotees. The sedate looking banker who has abandoned Wall street for a few weeks is here, the stout dressed, sporty looking individual who is laying his money to beat the "bookies" is on hand; a few rail birds, just to give a touch of realism to the scene, are perched on the fence; the midjet jockies in their variegated costumes are curbing the prancing and impatient thoroughbreds.

There is a loud murmur, a round of mirthful chatting and low laughter, what a merry looking assemblage! Cosmopolitan, gorgeous, democratic Saratoga! No care, no class! Common in purpose, in thought; the fever of the race is on. The barrier is up. They're off! The colored jockies are crowding on the necks of their horses. Not a breath in the grand stand, then a loud hurrah as the favorite sweeps from the field; silence, tense silence as another swings free. They sweep into the stretch, two ahead! Neck and neck! The crowd is silent, the jockies are driving for their lives! The favorite falters for a moment! His rival forges a nose ahead, another cheer, and then an awful stillness as a shadow surges to the outside, swings in on the open, and ere the thousands realize it an "outsider" has won the race!

Evening—now paint Saratoga, and who will wonder why there is only one Saratoga? The verandas of the magnificent hotels are thronged with fashionably dressed men and women. In the spacious and fragrant court yards are hundreds more, walking or seated at the tables, quaffing cool drinks and breathing in the balmy atmosphere. The strains of sweet music float forth from the hotel verandas!

Broadway is a promenade, Saratoga is at its ease.
"Do you live in New England? Get away! Go out to Saratoga! The season is on!" The Boston & Maine Railroad is the only line out of Boston running through to Saratoga. Write and we will tell you how to go. For a two cent stamp we will send you a book describing the route; the title is "The Hoosac Country and Deerfield Valley." D. J. Flanders, General Passenger & Ticket Agent, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston.

PRIDE BEFORE A FALL.

A young girl came sauntering down the street the other day whose figure was divine. Every curve was perfect. And the young lady was quite conscious that the symmetry was a thing to be admired.

She wore one of those up-to-date sweaters (instead of a coat) which button down the front. It was apparently quite new.

An old colored man was leaning against the sunny side of a wall, warming his rheumatic joints in old Sol's friendly rays. As the girl in the sweater approached he raised his tattered cap from his gray wool.

"Mornin', Miss Evelina," he said very graciously, bowing low.

"Good mornin', Henry," replied the girl, acknowledging the salutation.

"Yoh lookin' mighty fine an' dandy this mornin', Miss Evelina."

"Thank you, Henry."

"Thets a mighty exquisite jumper yoh has on, Miss Evelina. I has noticed it two or three times lately, yeh certainly am a pixer in thet jumper. It am a good, warm jumper, ain't it, Miss Evelina?"

"Yes, quite warm, Henry," replied the young girl—"only it isn't a jumper. It's a sweater." She corrected with a touch of pride.

"Yes, yes, yoh certainly am a pixer in thet jumper," the old man went on, gazing at the sweater with appreciative eyes and quite ignoring the correction. "Yoh makes scenery when yoh walks down the street, Miss Evelina. My ole woman an' me was sayin' the other evenin' thet yeh was't a prettier girl in this yere town than Miss Evelina. Such a stylish walk! Such a lovely—er—ah, such magnificent tee!"

"O, Henry I shall have to be going," said the girl, laughing and blushing. "You are getting to be an awful flatterer."

"Why-er-Miss Evelina, befo' yoh go I'd like to say thet if yoh doan want thet jumper, why, my ole woman is j-ust yoh figner."—Lippincott's.

GERMANY'S TRAVELING SCHOOLS

Farmers' daughters are educated in many parts of Germany in travelling schools which go from village to village to give girls over 16 years of age practical lessons in housekeeping, cooking, the selection of food, care of poultry and cattle, the cultivation of vegetables, and butter and cheese making.

The results have been so satisfactory that it is now proposed to add instruction in nursing, cooking for the sick, mending and sewing.

The teachers, who are graduates of the schools of housework and have passed government examinations, carry with them an outfit of a cooking stove and the various utensils for cooking and ironing.

The classes are held in the school-houses, the term lasts six weeks and the cost of tuition is put so low as practically to exclude no one.—Philadelphia Press.

The festivities of the evening consisted of games and music by a popular young man of the village, the company joining in the refrains. Local members of the Royal Arcanum are interested in the fact that the Supreme Council will hold its special meeting to reconsider the new rates at Put-in-Bay, O., Aug. 30, according to an announcement by Supreme Regent Wiggins. Up to date the Supreme Council has received signed requests for a special meeting from 42 supreme representatives. Unless the general demand for a revision of the new rates is heeded the protesting members will probably attempt to have the matter settled in court. If the new rates are upheld at the special session the question of satisfactory rates to be substituted for them will be a subject for much discussion. The coming session will take place at the Hotel Victor, and over 100 Supreme representatives will attend. It is thought. The issue of the meeting will be about $12,000. The proceedings will be secret. The revised rates, as announced some time ago, met with considerable opposition in the local council, as it did in most others, and resolutions were adopted advocating some other plan of assessment that would not be too great a burden upon the older members of the order.

There is a possibility that Methuen may, after the redistricting which is to follow the census, takes place, be taken out of the six councillor district and put into the fifth or Essex district. While the fifth is known as the Essex district, it is a fact that the county as a whole has not been in one councillor district since 1875. While the law provides that each councillor district shall be made up of five senatorial districts and as nearly evenly as possible on the basis of legal voters, the fifth district in 1898 had 33,072 voters, a larger number than any of the other districts. The arrangement stood until the redistricting in 1876. From that time down the section around Lawrence has been separated from the rest of the county and has been the election of councillor is concerned. That year Lawrence, Andover, Methuen and North Andover were put in the sixth district, which extended from Lowell way out to Marlboro. Ten years later the only change in the fifth district was to substitute North Andover for Bradford. The latter is at Lawrence in the sixth district. At the last redistricting in 1896 there seems to have been a combination of circumstances making Essex county a councillor district in itself. In the first place the making up of the Essex-Middlesex senatorial district and the provision that five senatorial districts should make up a councillor district and that a senatorial district should not be divided brought several Middlesex towns into the fifth district. In second place the sixth district was reduced so in number of legal voters that more Essex county towns had to be put in to make up. Bradford, which was annexed to Haverhill, could not be kept in the sixth district, as a city or town could not be divided. Accordingly North Andover was put back where it had been 10 years before in Bradford and Tonsfield were added. In this way the fifth district took in 70,420 and the sixth 70,696 voters. It is probable that if the make-up of two county senatorial districts can be avoided the whole of Essex county can be put into one councillor district, as it is expected that the Essex county cities will show considerable increase in population, and the Middlesex county towns in the Essex-Middlesex senatorial district, North Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield and Woburn, it is anticipated will show a lesser growth. The county as a whole is to come before a special redistricting committee of the next legislature, who are to make up the eight districts in the whole state as nearly equitably as possible.

CRICKET

LAWRENCE IS SECOND PLACE IN CRICKET RACE.

Lawrence jumped into second place in the cricket league Saturday by defeating Brockton, 113 to 109.

The victory was a notable one for the Lawrence eleven. The game was played at Brockton and the home team batted first. A total of 109 runs was scored. The time remaining for Lawrence to overcome this lead was only one hour and 45 minutes. The Lawrence delegation on the grounds practically gave up all hope of winning the game, but dropping spirits were revived when Gill made 22 and Woodcock 61 not out. Hill was sent in when Gill was bowled out and he made 20 before being bowled out by Grimley. Longbottom was bowled out by Grimley before making a tally, but McIntyre scored 10 not out, and Lawrence stopped playing 15 minutes before the time limit with only three wickets down. Six men, Hodgson, Wainwright, Walker, Barker, O'Brien and Wade did not bat.

Bowler was in fine form, taking six wickets, for 23 runs. The Lawrence delegation was royally entertained after the game by the Brockton team. The score:

LAWRENCE CRICKET TEAM PULLS BROCKTON DOWN.

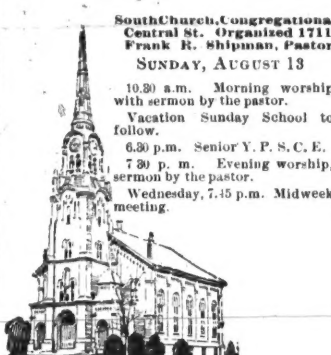

The Brockton Cricket club after having lost the sweets of occupying the top position in the cricket league for a whole week, was ruthlessly thrown down to fourth place by Lawrence last Saturday, being defeated by seven wickets. Lawrence making the journey to Brockton to do the trick, thus placing Lynn on the top, while they go up to second place. The game will long be remembered by Brockton, as it looked to be quite easy, after compiling 109 runs to get out Lawrence before they could make that total. The batting, however, proved to be too good for the bowling. Gill and Woodcock collaring it very early, the former making a nice 22 before he was bowled by Orton. R. Hill, upon joining Woodcock, had lots of confidence and ran up 20 runs before he was bowled by Grimley. Woodcock was now so well settled at the wicket that it only became a question of how much they could win by. McIntyre assisting Woodcock to make 61 not out. Among the bowlers, Walker was the star, with 6 for 23.

While Brockton was struggling to retain the top place, the West India and Boston teams were fighting hard to see who should occupy the last position in the league ladder, as they have both been tied for that position the past month. Boston was successful through the batting of Keene and Perkins and by the fine bowling of Haslam, who took 5 for 20, and Perkins, who took 4 for 18. For the West India team, the two Isaacs and De Silva put up a gallant struggle, but being badly supported, had to accept a defeat.

It was a great game at Lowell between the Buntings and the Mohairs, the former winning by 61 to 36, on the Mohair crease. Long before the game commenced there was a crowd of spectators who not only talked up their favorites, but put up their money as well, quite a deal changing hands. The game from beginning to end was a bowlers' game as there were but three men in both innings able to get in double figures. For the Buntings, Rowley was double scorer, making 21 before he stepped out to an enticer which got him caught by Priestly off Mosley's bowling, odgen carrying out his bat for 10, the side being out for 61. For the Mohairs, Priestly made a fine 50, but was the only source of hope, as the bowling and fielding of the Buntings was gill-edged. Odgen bringing the inning to an abrupt termination by his hat trick, three wickets by three successive balls, his bowling average being 7 for 13 while for the Mohairs, Mosley took 5 for 5. This makes three wins in succession for the Buntings and places them in the third place in the league.

East Boston, with a weak team, but lots of luck, managed to defeat the Merrimacks by 101 to 67. Coates and S. Rowland made 67 between them, exactly as many as the Merrimacks scored, but both men should have been out early as they gave good chances which were not accepted. Hadden for the losers put up the best game for the day, making 31, and carrying his bat for a full hour in the second division. Highlandville and Lynn C. and A. had a fine set-to at Highlandville, which resulted in Lynn's downfall, Highlandville declar-

BASHFULNESS OF GIRLS THE TROUBLE IN SHASTA

The new marriage law is playing the mischief with cupid's plans in Shasta county, California. It seems that the trouble making regulation requires the presence of both the contracting parties before the official who issues the licenses. There they must make answer to such questions as are put to them.

And now the girls of old Shasta refuse to join the young men in facing this official music. Ordinarily, scarcely a day passes at the license office that isn't enlivened by the issuing of several of these passports to happiness, but during the first 10 days after the law went into effect not a solitary license was passed across the counter.

The Shasta girls seem to think they would rather submit to the woes of spinsterhood than make public application for the necessary document, and Shasta is a good deal alarmed over the outlook.

But it is believed by the more sagacious students of humankind that the young women will get over this attack of shyness before many moon days have passed. If there is no other way to secure husbands, this is the way they will have to be secured. And there are citizens of Shasta, mostly old settlers who are even willing to assert that the time will come when Shasta young women will not only come themselves, but they will come with their fingers tightly locked in the coat collars of the timid young men who imagine they are too bashful to face the horrid ordeal.

KEEPING TAB ON THE WORLD

Gloomily the Peace Conference Begins at Portsmouth, the Envoys of Japan and Russia Having Been Introduced by the President at Oyster Bay—Jerome Defies All Party Machines. Edison Perfects His Auto Truck Battery—New Orleans Asks Uncle Sam to Handle Fever Quarantine.

POLITICAL

Jerome as an Independent.

A most interesting declaration of independence has been given out by District Attorney Jerome of New York, in which he announces his candidacy for re-election, providing he is nominated by popular petition, which, under the election law, requires 2,000 signatures and not by any party machine. Although he is a Democrat in national politics, Mr. Jerome says that national issues have no real application to state or local affairs, and he declares it to be one of the greatest evils of our time "that small groups of men have, and not infrequently a single man, obtained control of the executive machinery of party organization and stand between the public servants and the voters." He says that a man who works with such a group comes under obligations which cannot be disregarded and that he cannot take office by their favor and still be free.

He does not propose to remain in office by the grace of any man or group of men such as he indicates. In other words, Mr. Jerome is evidently trying to find out whether or not the people of New York will elect a man to office who has not first obtained permission from the Tammany chief or the Republican chairman to be a candidate. This a fundamental political issue is raised entirely aside from the question of Mr. Jerome's personal equation. It strikes at the system of machine domination, to which each of our municipal corruption is attributed.

Mr. Jerome said, that it was the sense of degradation resulting from the consciousness of being ruled by crooks that was going to start the fight he thought was approaching, and all that was needed was a man capable of moral leadership. He spoke of the spirit of unrest throughout the country and the vast literature of graft which had sprung up in the last few years.

Wilson at Oyster Bay.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has called on the president and had a talk with him about the programme of reforms which has been devised. He told the president that leaks from the bureau of statistics were no longer possible. He said it was no longer a one man affair, but would be run by four well trained scientists, two of whom are southerners. The secretary denied the report that he was about to resign and said he would stick to his post until the department was purged. He said all of the trouble originated in the quarrel of two gamblers over a woman.

Weaver Drafts Employees.

A new and powerful weapon in the campaign for a pure ballot in the city of Philadelphia was forged by Mayor Weaver's order requiring all municipal employees to report not later than Aug. 9 the cases of illegal registration in their respective election divisions. This will test the loyalty of each official to the cause of good government. The reports of fraudulent registration have continued, and in several precincts the entire election board was said to be mythical.

Depew Promises to Explain.

On his return from Europe Senator Depew told the reporters that he had nothing to say except that he was coming home to stay in the storm center and that in a short time he would make public a full statement of his connection with the Depew Improvement company and the Equitable loan. He admitted that he had subscribed $1,500 for a copy of "Fads and Fancies," but denies that he did so under pressure. He said that it is his custom to devote each year at least $1,000 to help "the boys."

A Negro Dominates Wilmington.

By a curious situation in the municipal government of Wilmington, Del., Thomas E. Postles, a negro supporter of Addicks, has become the virtual ruler of the city. In the council are thirteen members, seven being Republicans and six Democrats. Postles by making a deal with the Democrats has elected five of his friends to city offices, two of whom are negroes, in return for which he prevents the election of Republican successors to two Democratic officials. He holds the balance of power and is the first negro to be elected by popular vote in Delaware, being supported by white Democrats and opposed by those of his own race. When an appeal was made for a majority rule, Postles replied, "But I am the majority." One interesting feature is the election of Joseph Postles to be city treasurer's clerk, in which capacity he will make out checks for 400 white schoolteachers of the city.

Insurance Legislation Demanded.

Insurance Commissioner Cutting of Massachusetts in his annual report handles the insurance irregularities without gloves and asserts that the legislature must act to safeguard future investments. His table shows the lack of conservatism not only in the management of the Equitable, but of the Mutual and New York Life. He refers to the Equitable as the great "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Insurance company." In general Mr. Cutting thinks that these disclosures show the spirit of the times to be a mad rush for wealth in which the moral vision of business men is blurred. He says that it is an indictment of the business and commercial practices which have developed in the last quarter of a century.

A Public Ownership Sweep.

In his address at Boston at the outing of the Tammany club Mayor Dunne of Chicago said that he had found it to be the rule that where utilities are furnished by private companies they cost from 50 to 100 per cent more than when furnished by public companies. After telling how the city of Chicago was planning a municipal street railway line, the mayor said that a wave of public sentiment in favor of public ownership of public utilities was sweeping over the land. He thought that Chicago would have achieved its purpose within a few months and have the proud distinction of being the first city in the United States to be in actual ownership of its street car system, and when that is an assured success he thought it would mean that hundreds of other cities would follow her example.

FOREIGN

Arrival of Russia's Envoy.

Serge Witte arrived at New York Aug. 2 with his suit and lodged at the St. Regis hotel. He denied the report that he had said anything about the Japanese conditions being intolerable and gave out a statement full of friendly feeling for the American people and pleasant words for his gallant adversary, Japan. M. Witte is a large bodied, good natured man who gives the impression of great strength and self possession. After a day spent in sight seeing about New York he went to Oyster Bay to call on the president, and next day both the Russian and Japanese envoys were taken from New York to Oyster Bay on the cruises Tacoma and Chattanooga, respectively.

Third Assistant Secretary of State Peirce on board the yacht Sylph preceded the cruisers, and on arriving at Oyster Bay an ambassadorial salute of nineteen guns was fired by the Galveston, Mayflower and Dolphin waiting there. Mr. Peirce then went from the Sylph to the Mayflower and was followed by the president, after which the Japanese came aboard to be presented, and then the Russians. The president in turn introduced the Japanese and Russians, and a luncheon followed in the cabin of the Mayflower. Then the Japanese mission went on board the Dolphin and the Russian mission on board the Mayflower, and these ships, conveyed by the cruiser Galveston, sailed for Portsmouth, where the peace conference is now in progress.

The determination of Japan to retain her hold on Manchuria was indicated by the hasty and secret preparations for the construction of the railway which now runs from Fusan to Seoul, in Korea, across the Yalu to a junction with the Chinese Eastern railway at Liaoyang. It is reported that rush orders have been placed with American firms in the last few days for 350 steel bridges, 150 locomotives and 2,000 cars. The road is to be known as the Seoul-Wiji line.

Japs Claim All Sakhalin.

Official proclamation has been made by Lieutenant Hariguchi extending the military jurisdiction of Japan over the entire island of Sakhalin. The possession of this island places the whole Amur region of Siberia under Japanese influence. It is learned that on July 26 a Japanese force seized the port of Castries, on the Siberian coast, about 100 miles south of the mouth of the Amur. It is a terminus of the Sakhalin cable.

Famine Faces Russia.

The central statistical committee at St. Petersburg reports that the harvests in forty-one of the sixty provinces of European Russia are a complete failure. In the other provinces the condition of crops is far below the average. This indicates the imminence of a serious famine.

Wants to Close the Baltic.

Emperor William's recent cruise in the Baltic and his calls on Russia, Denmark and Sweden is interpreted as a preliminary move toward the closing of the Baltic sea so far as the warships of other countries are concerned. The announcement of the coming cruise of the British squadron in that sea is believed to have caused the emperor much annoyance.

Czar Against Peace Concessions.

In the St. Petersburg Official Messenger appeared an imperial telegram sent by the czar in reply to an address from Khabarovka expressing his purpose to continue the war until the enemy is crushed and not to think of the concession of territory or the payment of any indemnity. This coming immediately after the secret interview with Emperor William caused it to be taken seriously, and the conclusion was that if the Japanese make such demands at the peace conference M. Witte would break off negotiations. At the same time General L'nevitch has telegraphed the czar that the army is ready for any task. The general denies the published report that his army has been surrounded by the Japanese.

Kaiser Against Republic.

During his visit at Copenhagen Emperor William is reported to have said that he would support Prince Charles for the throne of Norway. He added that if Prince Charles does not become king Norway will be a republic. He preferred a monarchy. Christian Landberg is head of the new coalition ministry at Stockholm, Sweden.

LEGAL-CRIMINAL

Equitable Restitution Suits.

Attorney General Mayer of New York has begun suits against the Equitable Life Assurance society and the fifty prominent men who composed its board of directors prior to the recent shakeup. The court is asked to require that the directors account for their management and disposition of funds and property, that they be compelled to pay back any money acquired by themselves or lost or wasted through violation of their duties, that those guilty of misconduct be removed and that the surplus be credited to and distributed solely among the policy holders. There is nothing in this that will disturb the Ryan management.

The legislative investigation committee met and organized at Albany and began its probing of the methods of the Equitable.

John Hyde Coming Back.

In response to urgent cable messages from Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, John Hyde, the former statistician of the department, telegraphed from England that he would return to this country as soon as possible. He is expected to assist materially in the grand jury investigation of the crop report scandal. The grand jury has adjourned to Aug. 15.

Paterson's Mayor a Forger.

William H. Belcher, Paterson's "reform" mayor, has been exposed as a perpetrator of forgeries aggregating $50,000 or more. His favorite method of stealing appears to have been the palming off of fake mortgages. Mayor Belcher had been looked upon as a model of upright and pure life.

Editor Criswell a Suicide.

Robert W. Criswell, editor of the New Yorker, who was recently summoned on a libel charge by Congressman Rhinock of Kentucky because of a slurring reference to Miss Alice Roosevelt in connection with her visit to Cincinnati, committed suicide by throwing himself in front of a subway train at New York. He was once connected with the organization known as the Social Editors' society, which had been securing subscriptions to a book known as "America's Foremost Families." This was under investigation by the district attorney.

EXECUTIVE

Treasury Deficit For July.

The first month of the new fiscal year which ended July 31 showed that the government had spent $13,857,896 more than it took in. This is $3,532,746 less than for the corresponding period of last year, but the deficit at that time was partly due to the purchase of the Panama canal and the fair loan. The receipts for the month were $49,273,133.

Why Pathologist Moore Quit.

Correspondence given out by order of the president explains the sudden resignation of Professor George T. Moore, the department of agriculture's pathologist, whose name was connected with a company organized to exploit nitro cultures for soil. The charge that Professor Moore was unduly interested in one or more firms was contained in a letter to the president from the Axtell-Rush Publishing company of Pittsburg, publishers of the National Stockman and Farmer. The matter was promptly referred to Secretary Wilson, and Professor Moore's resignation followed shortly. In resigning, the professor said that he had returned the stock of the nitro culture company which had been reserved for him.

More Russian Immigration.

Commissioner of Immigration Sergeant reports that the total number of immigrants for the last fiscal year was 1,027,421 as compared with 812,870 in 1904, while 11,596 were deported. The Russian immigration shows an increase of 29 per cent, the total number being 184,897.

Filipino Agitators Warned.

Governor Wright in a conference with the leading Filipinos at Manila denounced the independence agitation at this time and said that the sympathy shown for the ladrones was delaying commercial and political development. The government has given $50,000 to buy rice for the starving peasants in Cebu, where the drought has destroyed the crops, and the merchants of Manila have given $5,000 for relief.

It is highly important that these organs should properly perform their functions.

SARATOGA IN MID-SUMMER.

America's Real Pleasure Spa.
The season is on! Saratoga, the one joyous, only true pleasure spot is reeking with fun! Thousands have already gathered at the famous Spa. Broadway and its line of magnificent hotels presents a scene gorgeous and dazzling in the extreme. Early morning sees handsome equipages driving back and forth; Congress Spring Park assemblies hundreds seated at tables, talking and sipping the invigorating and health-giving waters. Noon, the cars and the carriages are traveling in the same direction—"off for the races!" Have you ever witnessed the thrilling sport, which means so much to the summer Saratogian? Enthusiasm! Why, there is nothing on earth to compare with a Saratoga race.

Thousands of people, men and women, young and old, are in the grand stands. The paddock contains its usual throng of inside devotees. The sedate looking banker who has abandoned Wall street for a few weeks is here; the loud dressed, sporty looking individual who is laying his plans to beat the "bookies" is on hand; a few rail birds, just to give a touch of realism to the scene, are perched on the fence; the midget jockies in their variegated costumes are curbing the prancing and impatient thoroughbreds.

There is a loud murmur, a rumble of mirthful chatting and low laughter—what a merry looking assemblage! Cosmopolitan, gorgeous, democratic Saratoga! No care, no class! Common purpose, in thought; the fever of the race is on. The barrier is up. They're off! The colored clouds are crowding on the necks of their horses. Not a breath in the grand stand, then a loud hurrah as the favorite sweeps from the field; silence, tense silence as another swings free. They sweep into the stretch, two ahead! Neck and neck! The crowd is silent, the jockies are driving for their lives! The favorite falters for a moment! His rival forges a nose ahead; another cheer, and then an awful stillness as a shadow surges to the outside, swings in, o the open, and ere the thousands realize it an "outsider" has won the race!

Evening—now past Saratoga, and who will wonder why there is only one Saratoga? The verandas of the magnificent hotels are thronged with fashionably dressed men and women. In the apocryphal and fragrant court yards are hundreds more walking or seated at the tables, quaffing cool drinks and breathing in the balmy atmosphere. The strains of sweet music float forth from the hotel verandas!

Broadway is a promenade. Saratoga is at its ease. Do you live in New England? Get away! Go out to Saratoga! The season is on! The Boston & Maine Railroad is the only line out of Boston running through to Saratoga. Write and we will tell you how to go. For a two cent stamp we will send you a book describing the route; the title is "The Hoosac Country and Deerfield Valley." D. J. Flanders, General Passenger & Ticket Agent, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston.

PRIDE BEFORE A FALL.

A young girl came sauntering down the street the other day whose figure was divine. Every eye was attracted. And the young lady was so conscious that the symmetry was a thing to be admired.

She wore one of those up-to-date sweaters (instead of a coat) which button down the front. It was apparently quite new.

An old colored man was leaning against the sunny side of a wall, warming his rheumatic joints in old Sol's friendly rays. As the girl in the sweater approached he raised his tattered cap from his gray wool.

"Mornin', Miss Evelina," he said very graciously, bowing low.

"Good morning, Henry," replied the girl, acknowledging the salutation.

"Yoh lookin' mighty fine an' dandy this mornin', Miss Evelina."

"Thank you, Henry."

"Thats a mighty exquish' jumper yoh has on, Miss Evelina. I have seen it two or three times lately—yoh certainly am a piter in that jumper. It am a good, warm jumper, ain't it, Miss Evelina?"

"Yes, quite warm, Henry," replied the young girl, "only it isn't a jumper, it's a sweater," she corrected with a touch of pride.

"Yes, yes, yoh certainly am a piter in that jumper," the old man went on, gazing at the sweater with appreciative eyes and quite ignoring the correction. "Yoh make a fine lookin' yoh walks down the street, Miss Evelina. My ole woman an' me was sayin' the other evenin' that there wasn't a prettier girl in this yere town than Miss Evelina. Such a stylish walk! Such a lovely—er—ah!r. Such magnificent teeth! Such—"

"O, Henry I shall have to be going," said the girl, laughing and blushing.

"You are missin' to be an awful fatterer—"

"Why—er—Miss Evelina, befo' yoh go I'd like to say that if yoh doan want that jumper, why, my ole woman is j—"

GERMANY'S TRAVELING SCHOOLS

Farmers' daughters are educated in many parts of Germany in travelling schools which go from village to village to give girls over 16 years of age practical lessons in housekeeping, cooking, the selection of food, care of poultry and cattle, the cultivation of vegetables, and butter and cheese making.

The results have been so satisfactory that it is now proposed to add instruction in nursing, cooking for the sick, mending and sewing.

The teachers, who are graduates of the schools of housework and have passed government examination, carry with them an outfit of a cooking stove and the various utensils for cooking and ironing.

The classes are held in the school-houses, the term lasts six weeks and the cost of tuition is put so low as practically to exclude no one.—Philadelphia Press.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1905.

Keep Everlastingly at it.

Some of our good friends insist that the Gypsy moth has arrived in Andover. We fear that this is a fact, and he is far from a welcome guest. With this intelligence comes another statement that either the brown tail moth or some of his relatives is attacking the pine trees, heretofore thought to be immune.

There is no question but that a great deal of trouble is ahead of us in the campaign against this moth pest. Already the brown tail has called out a generous amount of money and strength to be expended in fighting, and the gypsy is said to be much more of an enemy. But out of an abundance of optimism we cannot refrain from calling to account some of those who think that every leaf and other green thing is to vanish within the next few years.

It isn't very long ago that the canker worm was hailed as the destroyer of every apple tree in New England, but the writer had apple pie for dinner today. Not long after that there came that delightful little visitor, "Mr. Striped potato bug," and there was wide spread fear that the end of the tuber was at hand. So it has gone on from one pest to another, but with never a pest without some way to overthrow it.

Eternal vigilance, and always armed with some sort of a weapon to make combat with, has been the price of the past victories, and the same are very clearly demanded now, but the right state of mind in which to plan the campaign is most emphatically expressed by the letters that spell victory and not defeat. If the "gypsies" are here it is quite proper to bemoan their coming, but with one part of bemoaning let us all mix nine parts of up and doing.

Editorial Cinders.

It isn't pleasant to refer to it again, but that crossing at the railroad station is again becoming very frequently blocked by carriages. The Townsman has felt a deal of satisfaction that its request of a year or more ago was so generally heeded. Older citizens with carriages now leave the crossing free for pedestrians for whom it was built, but since the summer visitor came, there have been many train times when it took expert dodging for the unfortunate who uses shank's mare to get through the net work of teams and get across the street, to say nothing of using the regular crossing. Won't some of our readers pass the "Andover courtesy idea" regarding the R. R. crossing" along to those visitors in our midst who may be unconscious in their actions.

We want to keep the "Tell-Tale" up to date but it is not an easy task. Notwithstanding the fact that the last issue was edited with great care we find this week that there is a mistake in the time of mail closing for New York. The last mail for New York closes at 6:30 and not at 7:45. The 7:45 mail was only recently discontinued, but one day's lapse in "Tell-Tale" information is apparently very dangerous.

While the concreters are at work around town it would seem to be quite in order for Supt. Lovejoy to have several broken walks in different parts of the town put into repair. A concrete walk will not last forever any more than an ordinary roadway and a small part of each year's appropriation should now go into looking after the work done years ago.

We don't like to see landmarks pass away whether they be old buildings, favorite trees, or long time business houses. So it is that we chronicle with regret the giving up of business by E. C. Pike. He has for a long time maintained an honorable business position in Andover, and now that he relinquishes to seek new health, he will have the entire community's best wishes for his future.

Ponds, brooks, rivers and wells each and all are showing very clearly the severe and prolonged dry spell. Some brooks that never before ceased to run at least a little, are completely dried up, and on all sides there is general complaint. Fortunately indeed is that community possessing an unlimited water supply, and Andover very fairly belongs in this list.

KILLED AT B. & M. STATION

Sad Accident by Which Young Woman Loses Life and a Young Man is Injured.

A sad accident occurred at the Boston & Maine railroad station Monday night in which Miss Minnie Cahalne, aged 23, was killed and her fiancé, James Currie, sustained a broken arm.

While crossing the tracks the girl was struck by the Portland express which was passing through here at 8:55 p. m. She received a terrible blow in the head and fell against the cowcatcher, being carried about 50 feet before the train was stopped, and her body tenderly removed to the station platform. She had evidently died almost instantly. Her face was terribly battered and her skull crushed.

Miss Cahalne had been spending a portion of the evening at the home of Mr. Currie, who resides in the brick block, Higgins court, just west of the railroad station. About 8:45 she started to go to the residence of Dr. A. E. Hulme on Main street, where she was employed as a domestic. Mr. Currie accompanied her.

Instead of walking up Essex street and crossing the tracks at the gates, they took the shorter cut around the south end of the station. Freight train No. 908 from Boston was going through when they reached the station. They waited for it to pass and immediately started to cross. The freight was on the track farthest away from them and they had stepped upon the west track just as the last freight car was passing. They had almost crossed the west track when Currie saw the express almost upon them. He seized Miss Cahalne and tried to pull her forward. She evidently did not understand his sudden action and pulled back just as the engine was upon them. Currie was clear of the track with his right arm around his fiancée. This arm was broken below the elbow and Miss Cahalne was torn away from him. Friends carried the injured man to his home where his wounds were dressed by Drs. Abbott and Torrey.

The police were notified of the accident and by their order the body of the girl was removed to Messrs' undertaking rooms. Medical Examiner Geo. W. Dow was notified and viewed the remains, which were turned over to Hickey and Devlin of Lawrence, Tuesday.

Jeremiah Cahalne, of 281 Oak street, Lawrence, is a brother of the dead girl and she leaves a sister in Lawrence, who was employed as a domestic in the family of Dr. Gabeler. Her parents reside in Ireland. She was a girl of bright disposition and was very popular among her associates. She was to be married to Mr. Currie in the fall. He is employed by Michael Walsh, plumber and tinsmith. While his injuries were not serious the shock of the accident nearly prostrated him Monday evening.

He says that the freight train made so much noise that he did not hear the express approaching, and that he did not see it until it was almost upon them. He thinks that she would have been clear of the train if she had not dodged back. She seemed puzzled by his grasping her so suddenly, and tried to pull herself away, probably thinking that he was fooling.

The express was in charge of Conductor D. A. Neal. The engineer stopped the train within its length. The accident was not on his side of the track. At the thought the train had struck some one and after stopping the train backed into the station. After the accident had been investigated the train proceeded to Boston.

The funeral of Miss Cahalne was held at 9 o'clock Thursday morning from St. Mary's church, Lawrence. There was a large number of friends in attendance.

Solemn high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Fr. McGowan of Andover, assisted by Fr. Cullane as deacon and Fr. Adams as sub-deacon. Miss Katherine White rendered "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Jerusalem."

Interment took place in the family lot in the Immaculate cemetery. The pall bearers were John McCarthy, Daniel Cahalne, Michael Cahalne, Austin Pendergast, Frank Lucy and Michael Keefe.

Local Girl Missing.

It has been reported to the Lawrence police that Miss Rose Fraize, the 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fraize of North Main street had been missing since last Sunday. She was last seen at Glen Forest about six o'clock with another young girl, Mamie Pendergast of Methuen and two young men who were endeavoring to get the girls to go canoeing with them. Miss Pendergast's sister and another girl had been with them during the afternoon but at this hour they left for home. One of the young men is said to be Joseph Carroll of Prospect hill, Lawrence. He has not been home since Sunday.

It was at first thought that the missing girls were in camp with the young men on the shore of the Merrimack river but investigation failed to reveal this as a fact. It was rumored that the Fraize girl was seen in Boston on Monday.

She has never been away from home over night before except on one or two occasions when she stayed with the Pendergast girl. She has been employed in Smith & Dove's mill.

At an annual picnic of the Hawkes family held at Hawkes' Corner, North Saugus, July 28, Andover was represented by Mrs. Henry Hayward, her three daughters, and one small granddaughter from Lawrence, also Miss Madeline Hewes, whose great grandmother was a Hawkes of Lynn. As all the children of John Hawkes (2), the only son of the original Adam (1), descend from the two wives, Rebecca Maverick and Sarah Cushman, granddaughters of the Pilgrim, Isaac Allerton, we had a very cosy little Mayflower society gathered. With Miss Lydia Hutchinson, of Wakefield, a lineal descendant of Edward Hutchinson, the stepson of Adam Hawkes, who staid in Lynn near his early home and left the largest group of descendants, we listened to a very fine sketch of the Quaker blacksmith, Ebenezer Hawkes (5), and added to the stores of material for a sketch some time in the future to be issued for those of Andover blood who connect with the two early families who settled around Hawkes' Corner and spread into Andover. Has Sold Business and Building.

An important real estate transfer was made this week when E. C. Pike sold to B. Rogers and J. H. Champion the property owned by him on Park street. The sale also includes the plumbing business and stock owned by Mr. Pike. The building is a two story and one half wooden structure and with the land is valued at $2900.

Mr. Rogers and Mr. Champion will close out the business at once, retaining the real estate as an investment.

Mr. Pike has been in ill health for some time and this is the reason why he has disposed of his property. He has been in business since 1875, when he had a shop in the building now occupied by George Saunders. He moved from there to the building in which J. P. Wakefield's market is located and later moved into the building which he has just sold.

Play School Notes

Next week will end the session of the Play School.

The entertainment on Friday, Aug. 4, was a great success and was much enjoyed by the young people and a few friends whom they had invited.

This week, weather permitting, the party will enjoy a trolley ride to the "Pines," which has been made possible through the energy and generosity of Miss Anna B. Abbott and a few of her friends. The party, in charge of the instructors, and a few others, will leave the square at 1 o'clock sharp, returning in the early evening.

The second issue of the Chronicle will appear early next week. A larger number will be prepared this time so that its many friends who were not supplied with the first issue may be with the second. Our thanks are due to others who contribute to the expense by advertising.

On Thursday afternoon, Aug. 17, the work done by the pupils will be exhibited in the Stowe school from 4 to 5 o'clock, and a cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested. Parents of the children and members of the Guild are especially invited to be present.

Lawrence's Water Question.

The mayor of Lawrence and members of the committee on water supply met the Selectmen at their meeting on Monday afternoon in regard to supplying Lawrence with water during the winter. After considerable discussion the request was refused by the Town fathers.

Some months ago a similar request was made by the committee from Lawrence and at that time the request was refused. North Andover has been asked to help Lawrence out during the winter but the Selectmen there also voted to deny the request. It is expected that the city will now have to build a new filter.

Frightened by Automobile.

A horse owned by Selectman S. H. Bailey became frightened by an automobile while standing in front of J. P. Wakefield's market yesterday afternoon and dashed across the street. The wheels of the wagon caught in the tie posts and the horse broke from the wagon, breaking the harness in several places.

Ralph Bailey, who had charge of the outfit, was in Wakefield's at the time and seeing the horse start, he dashed out just in time to catch the horse before he could run. Three barrels of cabbages were strewn all over the sidewalk and street, having fallen from the wagon. The wagon was broken in several places.

STRUCK BY TROLLEY POLE.

Frank Vermille, Well Known Motorman, Lost His Life on the Reading & Andover Road Last Night.

Frank Vermille of Reading, a motorman in the employ of the Boston & Northern street railway, was almost instantly killed about 8:40 o'clock last night by being struck by a trolley pole and knocked from the running board of a car upon which he was riding.

Mr. Vermille's run was from Reading square to Berkeley street, Lawrence, and he completed his work yesterday about 5:30 o'clock, having left the transfer station in Lawrence on his last trip at 3:15 o'clock. He went to his home in Reading and after supper went with his wife for a car ride. On the way from North Reading to Reading square he noticed a man on the front seat to whom he wished to speak.

Leaving his wife, who was seated with him near the middle of the car, he crept under the guard rail which was down on his side, and walked along the running board to the front. After speaking to his friend he turned to retrace his steps when he was struck by one of the poles which supports the trolley, and was knocked from the car.

His fall was noticed by the conductor and some of the passengers, and the car was stopped as quickly as possible. The conductor and passengers hurried back and tenderly carried the injured man into a nearby house and a physician was hastily summoned, but when he arrived Vermille was dead. His skull was found to be fractured and he had sustained other injuries.

The medical examiner was notified and examined the body, after which it was turned over to an undertaker.

The victim of the accident had been employed by the road as a motorman for several years and was respected by his superiors and by the men with whom he worked. He was well known in Andover. Vermille was about 45 years old, and besides his widow, leaves one son. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A. A. A. AVERAGES.

As the season advances the averages of the Andover Athletic Association baseball team get more and more interesting to the members of the organization. Many changes take place in the figures but on the whole they are most satisfactory. Batting seems to be the weakest feature. Only one man, Maloney, is batting over .300. Stewart and Lawson are batting well, the former having improved greatly in the last few games.

The fielding of the team in most instances has been good comparatively few errors having been made during the season. Captain Maloney leads the list with a clean record having accepted all of his 62 chances. Lawson, Kelly and Hodnett follow closely with good records. The total fielding average of the team to date is .913 while the total batting average is .222.

SOCIOLOGICAL

A Women's Serial Club.
A number of prominent literary and professional women in this country

Mrs. A. K. Johnson.
The London Lyceum has been founded at the British capital. The leading spirit in the American chapter is Mrs. Adelaide K. Johnson, the well known sculptor, the London club having been organized by Miss Smedley, the daughter of a banker. The new club will be the local home of any out of town members and will include in its membership those engaged in any kind of arts and literature. It will offer facilities for disposing of the work of its members in these various lines and will afford an opportunity for personal interchange and association. The London club has all the features of a man's club, a smoking room being added to the tea and sitting rooms. Such noted women as Mrs. Wilkins, Mrs. Burnett, Miss Gilder, Mrs. Stuart, Alice Morse Earle, Laura D. Gill and President Hazard of Wellesley are said to be interested in the new club.

Miss Tarbell's Apology.
In her concluding sketch of the character of John D. Rockefeller for the August McClure's Miss Tarbell admits frankly that she was the only one of her kind "there certainly would be no justification of the brutality inherent in such a study as this." She finds him, however, "simply the type prevalent in the public mind of the militant business man of the day." The code which he has worked out so perfectly is in operation from banker to street vendor until "success is the justification of any practice, until no price is too great to pay for winning." The Rockefeller practice of separating morals strictly from business has so saturated all forms of American life as to compel the analysis of Mr. Rockefeller. "History," she declares, "is but a museum of dissected heroes, warriors, kings and philosophers, their records stripped bare, their influences traced to their flowering." She says that the great public goes straight to the evident conclusion that "this man has for forty years lent all the power of his great ability to perpetuating and elaborating a system of illegal and unjust discrimination by common carriers." She thinks it doubtful if the interference with individual development thus fastened on the country can be thrown off without revolutionary methods. Referring to Mr. Rockefeller's vast wealth, she says it is too much to hope that even he will see "that what we need in society is not charity, but fair play."

Big Co-operative Experiment.
A report from Portland, Ore., says that the Rev. H. S. Wallace has just returned from New York after making arrangements for financing the Co-operative Christian Federation with $50,000,000 capital stock for the purpose of building a model city in the upper Willamette valley in Oregon and to establish factories, acquire land and build railroads. The federation is said to have the backing of the American Institute of Social Service, and its incorporators include a number of bank presidents and wealthy business men in different parts of the country. The members of the federation will acquire residences only through their earnings, and profits will be declared only after providing for all operating expenses, social advantages, relief of the sick and dependent ones. No idlers will be tolerated. Associated with Mr. Wallace are such men as Dr. J. M. Buckley, editor of the Christian Advocate; Dr. Josiah Strong and others.

Would Pension the Aged.
The annual report of the Massachusetts bureau of statistics for 1905 advocates old age pensions to be paid by the state to persons of more than sixty-five years of age who are in need of assistance. The argument supporting this proposition is that it will be as cheap to support the needy old by state pensions as it is to support them now in poorhouses, workhouses and by private charities. It is estimated that over $10,000,000 is spent yearly for Massachusetts charities. There are in the state over 143,000 persons sixty-five years or more old. A pension of $5 a week for each of them would amount to $57,000,000 a year, and it is thought to be certain that not more than one-fourth of the old will apply for charity money, for it is known that in foreign countries only one-fifth apply.

COMMERCIAL

Britain's Big Bankrupt List.
The London board of trade finds that the bankruptcies in Great Britain during 1904 numbered 8,631, of which 487 were failures of women. The total liabilities were over $60,000,000 and the loss to creditors was $22,000,000. There has been a steady increase in the number of undischarged bankrupts.

A Cassie Chadwick Dividend.
The referee in bankruptcy for Mrs. Chadwick, the queen of high finance, who has been sentenced to ten years imprisonment, finds that there remains about $14,000 with which to meet an indebtedness of over $2,000,000. This means that the creditors will get about seven mills on the dollar.

French Sugar Firm Fails.
The firm of M. Jaluzot, a Paris sugar speculator, failed, with $3,000,000 liabilities, causing a suspension of quotations in the sugar market. Jaluzot had engaged in an extensive bull speculation.

Pennsylvania Insurance Scandal.
Robert E. Forster, actuary of the Pennsylvania Insurance departments, after investigating the affairs of the North American, the Duquesne and Lafayette fire insurance companies, says that the assets claimed by these concerns are practically valueless.

Report on Haight & Freese.
The receiver of the Haight & Freese company filed its report at Boston, showing assets of $200,000 and liabilities of $400,000. The receiver finds that the only way by which the company could make money was through its customers' losses.

Lackawanna's High Record.
After sensational advances the stock of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad reached the high record of 425½. The general market shared in the upward trend.

LABOR

Citizens' League Headquarters.
C. W. Post, recently elected president of the Citizens' Industrial Association of America, has transferred the headquarters of that body from Indianapolis to New York, opening offices at Twenty-sixth street and Broadway, and coming from his home at Battle Creek to take charge in person. He has issued a long statement asking the public to divest itself of the idea that the association is fighting the labor union. He says they believe in the open shops and also in the right of workers and of employers to organize. They are as much opposed to the closed market as to the closed shop or any other combination designed to restrict competition. They are about to begin the publication of a monthly magazine, to be known as the Square Deal, edited by Wilson Vance. They deny that the open shops means lower wages.

Railway Telegraphers Strike.
The telegraphers of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways outside of St. Paul and Minneapolis were practically locked out and had the option of deserting their committee and accepting the wage schedule proposed by the companies or of quitting the service. A general strike was ordered by President Perhan, and an appeal was made for a conference.

What the Miners Want.
President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers in an address said that if the organization had 150,000 members when the present agreement expires next April the union should be able to gain from the operators recognition and an eight hour day.

Chicago Teamsters Re-employed.
All the striking lumber teamsters in Chicago returned to work under conditions imposed by the employers, and police supervision was discontinued. It was also announced that vacant places for drivers in department stores and grocery houses would be filled from the ranks of the strikers. The police and deputy sheriffs continued to act as store managers for a few days. This sympathetic strike lasted fifteen weeks and threw 4,250 men out of work, of whom half are permanently out of a job. The cost of the strike to the unions was over $300,000.

Massachusetts' Union Decision.
The supreme court of Massachusetts in the case of Berry versus Donovan decides that, under correct rules of law and a proper regard of the rights of individuals, labor unions cannot be permitted to drive men out of employment because they choose to work independently.

RELIGIOUS

Split in Zionist Congress.
The Zionist congress at Basel, Switzerland, after an all night session and amid scenes of great excitement rejected by a large majority an offer of Great Britain to deed a tract of land in east Africa for a Zionist colony. The resolution of rejection declared for the foundation of the colony in the Jewish fatherland, Palestine, or in that vicinity. Thereupon the minority, known as territorialists, left the congress and began holding separate meetings, charging irregularities in the election of delegates to the congress. The leader of this radical wing is Israel Zangwill, the author. The regular congress decided to promote systematically the organization of the Jews in Palestine.

Nature Study in Sunday Schools.
That the teaching of certain phases of nature study and science should be made an important part of the up to date Sunday school curriculum is the opinion of Wilbur S. Jackman of the School of Education in the University of Chicago. Writing in the New York Educational Review, Mr. Jackman regards it as important religious training that the growing mind should recognize the great generalization of science that nothing happens through whim or chance. He thinks it more conducive to a sound faith to realize that the affairs of men are subject to a beneficent and unchanging order than to suppose that they are subject to the vacillations of caprice that may yield to either mundane or celestial influence. He claims, moreover, that the final confirmation of the great law of love belongs to science and must come from and through a study of nature.

SCIENTIFIC

Edison Perfects Battery.
Thomas A. Edison announces at his Orange (N. J.) laboratory that after two years of experimentation he has solved the problem of electrical propulsion of auto vehicles by means of storage batteries and that within a few weeks an immense factory would be started for the manufacture of these batteries. With his new battery he would guarantee to run a pleasure vehicle under ordinary road conditions 100 miles with a single charging. He has succeeded in reducing the weight of the battery to about forty pounds per horsepower. He gives Cooper Hewitt credit for valuable assistance. It is possible to convert the alternating currents used in small towns so as to be available for charging. The inventor claims that an ordinary delivery wagon can now be operated for 58 per cent of the cost of maintaining a horse and that he can drive a two ton truck at the rate of thirty-three miles an hour.

New Weather Forecasting.
Edward H. Bowle, the local forecaster in charge of the St. Louis weather station, has devised a new method of estimating the future course and progress of a storm. It depends, first, on a more accurate estimate of the general eastward drift of the atmosphere, and second, on the difference of local pressure which may draw the air in any direction. Bowle's system assumes that storms follow the lines of least resistance resulting from the eastward drift and the southern drift due to the heat of the tropics. Thus he is able to locate the places to which the storm center will move during the coming twenty-four hours with considerable accuracy. The eastern drift is found to be the same for all storms at the same locality and season of the year, so that charts of normal storm tracks may be prepared.

EDUCATIONAL

Mrs. Mackay, School Trustee.
For two reasons the election of school trustees at the little village of Roslyn, N. Y., is being discussed from one end of the country to the other. One reason is that it is quite unusual for the young and attractive wife of a multimillionaire to "run for office" and make an active personal campaign for election. The other is that such a candidate should espouse certain educational reforms which many communities are in need of. Mrs. Clarence Mackay, whose husband inherited the great fortune left by the late founder of the Postal Telegraph and Cable company, was elected school trustee of Roslyn by a large majority over her opponent, who represented the conservative element of the community. Mrs. Mackay had taken the ground that the school building was insanitary and that the instruction was behind the times, especially for the lack of manual training. She also urged that the people should willingly pay a higher tax if necessary to improve the condition of the school.

MISCELLANEOUS

Quarantine War Threatened.
In enforcing the yellow fever quarantine in New Orleans the military power of Mississippi came face to face with the military power of Louisiana when the militiamen along the state line in the Mississippi sound district in patrol boats entered the waters of Louisiana and captured vessels and fishermen, sending the same to the quarantine station of the United States. Louisiana naval reserves were promptly called out by Governor Blanchard and were ordered to capture the marauding Mississippi quarantine boats. Prior to this the governor of Louisiana telegraphed to Governor Vardaman of Mississippi that he had no right to interfere with navigation in the waters of the United States. Governor Vardaman disavowed the action of the patrol boats. Governor Blanchard was particularly incensed at the action of the federal revenue cutter Winona, which he charged with assisting the Mississippi quarantine. He protested to the secretary of the treasury, but the latter replied that the Winona had been detailed to assist in maintaining the quarantine. Texas again put up the bars, and Arkansas followed suit. New cases of fever were reported at several widely separated points. Through trains on the Southern Pacific were held up at the Texas border, and in many places even the transmission of mails was stopped. Institutes and conventions have been called off, and intercity baseball games have been prohibited. Nearly all of the Mississippi towns have quarantined against fruit.

Doctor Brigham Says

MANY PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womanhood is not because it is a stimulant nor because it is a palliative but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructive ever discovered to act directly upon the generative organs, positively curing disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience it can be relied upon to effect a cure. The following letter proves it.

Dr. S. C. Brigham, of 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass., writes: "It gives me great pleasure to say that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very efficacious, and often prescribe it in my practice for female difficulties. My oldest daughter found it very beneficial for uterine trouble some time ago, and my youngest daughter is now taking it for a female weakness, and is surely gaining in health and strength."

I freely advocate it as a most reliable specific in all diseases to which women are subject, and give it honest endorsement."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that bearing-down feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. No living person has had the benefit of a wider experience in treating female ills. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice if she wants to be strong and well.

ANOTHER RAID AT CANOE LAKE PARK.

As a result of a petition that "the lid be put on" at Canoe Lake Park, Salem, N. H., General Manager Frank H. Woodman of the New Hampshire Traction company was again arrested Sunday with two amusement managers and is under bonds for a hearing. The traction company runs the park. Some say the raid was caused by a few with grievances against the road during the time it was built.

Recently, a crusade against the amusements at Canoe Lake Park was made by the clergymen of Salem.

At a late hour Sunday night Sheriff Collins arrived at the park from Portsmouth, accompanied by Trial Justice Hatcher of that city, and immediately there was convened a session of the court in the administration building of the park. Charles H. Ayer, Charles T. Woodbury and Charles F. Kimball, all residents of Salem, appeared as complainants, charging Manager Bowser of the roller coaster and Manager Braum of the flying horses and dance pavilion with violation of the Sunday law. General Manager Woodman was at the company's office in Haverhill when word was telephoned him of the arrests, and he immediately repaired there and presented himself as manager of the roller coaster and all charged with the same offense. Mr. Woodman appeared as counsel for himself and the two other managers and pleas of not guilty were entered. The hearing was adjourned until next Friday at 1.30 p. m.

In the petition circulated last week throughout Salem, signed by 30 citizens, it was claimed that a compromise had been effected whereby an agreement to a reduction of fares had resulted in the park operations continuing Sundays, in spite of the laws of the state. A month ago the same three managers appeared in court at Exeter and were each found guilty and fined $5. An appeal was taken and the case is pending. The respondents are now under bonds of $100 each. They will be represented by Col. Emery of Portsmouth and County Solicitor Kelley will prosecute. It is said that at the time the road was being built an employe was discharged by General Manager Woodman and that he is a prime mover in the raid.

PIG GRIST OF COURT BUSINESS IN ESSEX COUNTY.

E. B. George, clerk of courts of Essex county makes returns of the civil business of the superior court, giving these figures: Whole number of jury cases or dockets Jan. 1, 1881; jury waived cases 53; equity suits pending, 287; jury cases entered to July 1, 621; jury waived cases entered, 248; equity cases entered, 39; jury cases otherwise disposed of, 674; jury waived cases disposed of, 288; equity cases disposed of, 155; cases pending, 1400 jury, 248 jury waived, and 184 equity; verdicts set aside by court, 17.

The reduction in the list is due to a call of the entire docket last spring, when nearly 500 cases were struck off for want of prosecution. The Essex county court docket is clogged, and is increasing for lack of court sittings. On this account a special sitting of four weeks for jury cases will be opened Sept. 6.

WELL WE MIGHT GUESS.

From the Buffalo Express. An Albany man found a pocket-book containing $500. On returning it to the owner, a woman, she kindly gave him a nickel. Now if you were he what would you do with that $500? And what will he do with the next $500 purse which he finds?

"What a horrid scar Charlie has on his forehead, hasn't he?" "Oh, no! Not at all! Why, he got that in an automobile accident."—Detroit Free Press. "But why didn't the superintendent of insurance investigate before?"

LOCAL MEN HONORED BY SONS OF HERMAN.

CLINTON, Aug. 8, 1905.—The 14th annual convention of the Order of Sons of Herman, which has been in progress for three days, practically came to an end last night, though there was a brief business session of the Herman Benefit Association today. The gathering was both enjoyable and successful. The delegates were well entertained by Washington lodge. The festivities concluding with an address by Martin Klepp of Turners Falls, at a "family gathering" which was attended by many town officials, besides the delegates and their friends.

The reports of officers showed the increase of approximately 100 members in the year, making a total of 1300. During the session there was paid in benefits approximately $1500. It was voted to hold the next convention at Fitchburg on the first Monday of August, 1906. Gustaf Pilech of Lawrence and Martin Neipp of Turners Falls were elected delegates to the supreme lodge convention to be held at Seattle, Wash. These officers were installed by Richard Schaeffer of New Britain, Ct., supreme grand secretary.

FORMER LAWRENCE MINISTER STILL PREACHES AT ST.

More than half a century ago the Rev. Lyman Whiting, then a young man, was the first pastor of Lawrence street church. Old residents will be interested in the following clipping from the Boston Globe showing that he is still in harness with his natural force unabated. His vitality is indeed remarkable.

HEATH, Aug. 6.—The opening exercises of old-home week for this town came today, when Rev. Dr. Lyman Whiting, in his 87th year, and for more than 60 years a minister, drove from East Charlemont and preached a vigorous sermon. His text was from Luke iv. 1: "He came to Nazareth where he had been brought up." He said in part:

"A going away, a coming back, are the two great impulses of humanity. By them the world is peopled. To go somewhere and away from the birthplace is a mark of man from Cain, the earliest recorded emigrant."

"Why do people go? They may be tired of the old, they may crave the new, the untried. They may yearn for knowledge, for wider horizons and for mind and soul freedom. They may go to find better times, and something easier or get rich faster. They may desire to find churches or colleges, as did the Pilgrims."

"Why do they come back? They are drawn by the immortal spirit. There is a life-hunger to go back to the earliest and strongest memories of existence. It is a testing of the present by our past. 'This listening of the soul's whispers about ourselves, a glimpse, a coming back to the old home, is a yearning of the human heart for a home beyond life. The old home, the desire, confirms the craving for it. The coming back is some preparation for it.'"

THE PROPER FOOD FOR SUMMER

(Mrs. C. T. Herriek in "Success Magazine.")

Make your food simple in the summer. Try to establish for your table a different standard than that of heavy plenty. The mere sight of delicacies knows that meat and fats are not essential to the system during the heated term. Most people understand too, that we need less food when the mercury is in the nineties than when it is hovering about the freeze mark. Don't overeat your food, which is so hot that you spare off part of your physical mechanism as much hard labor as possible; and when you fill your stomach give it something it can take care of easily. The very indications of the season are so many finger posts telling you that food is plentiful for us at this time of year. Now is the day and the hour of fruits and vegetables. Never are they so plentiful, so cheap or so good as in the midsummer—and this is an exception to the general rule, which makes things cheap and tasty and delicious.

So, eat vegetables. I do not advise you to turn vegetarian, for we are, as a rule, carnivorous enough to eat a bit of meat for a relish, if no more. For the benefit of those who think work cannot be accomplished except upon a meat diet, no matter what the season; I will repeat the statement of an expert in dietetics, who informed me, a good deal to my discomfort, that one can work longer and get hungrier on a meal of vegetables than on a meal of meat. The latter is quickly digested, but a meal of vegetables is said to stay in the system for six hours. I dare say its abiding power varies with the rapidity or slowness of the individual eater's digestive processes, but the mere fact that it stays longer by any one for that space of time is encouraging to those who wish to offer vegetables to their caterpillar. There is relief in the thought that one can supply craving tastes and cut down the butcher's bill with the same action.

THE MAN BEHIND MILWAUKEE.

From the Washington Post. "The relentless warfare that is being waged on the boulders of Milwaukee is largely due to the courage and ability of the prosecuting attorney, a young Irish-American named McGovern," said Mr. A. P. Macey of that city at the Ebbitt.

"Milwaukee has been in the clutch of the grafters for years, but the handwriting is on the wall that foreshadows the speedy downfall of the graft. Young McGovern is uncovering the evil deeds so thoroughly that convictions are only a matter of time. It was due to him that a few years ago was passed which made the selection of juries in honest hands. In former times the rascals were sure to go away, because they were able to pick the grand juries with friends and kinsmen. "How much money the city has lost by the thievery of the grafters can only be surmised, but that it runs up into the millions is certain. Alas, men, supervisors, contractors, everybody who had anything to do with municipal matters was engaged in a race to see who could get the most plunder. The grand jury is still at work indicting them."

LAWRENCE

NEW TRAIN TO LOWELL.

A new train has been added to the Lowell-Lawrence schedule as a result of a recent conference between Pres. Tuttle of the Boston & Maine railroad and Mayor Casey of Lowell. Information to this effect is contained in the following letter:

Boston & Maine Railroad,
President's Office,

Boston, Aug. 4, 1905.

My dear Mr. Mayor:—I have arranged to add a new train between Lowell and Lawrence beginning tomorrow, Saturday, to leave Lowell at 1:45 p. m., and arrive at South Lawrence at 1:48, and North Lawrence at 1:55 p. m.; returning, the train will leave North Lawrence at 2 p. m., and arrive at Lowell at 2:35 p. m. This will give close connections with our Western Division train No. 33 for Portland, and it will be run until the 15th of September.

In the arrangement of out winter time table we shall endeavor to keep up this connection in some way.

Yours truly,

LUCIUS TUTTLE, President.

Hon. J. B. Casey, Mayor of Lowell
Mass.

TO RECONSIDER THE R. A. RATES.

The supreme council of the Royal Arcanum will hold its special meeting to reconsider the new rates at Putnam-Bay, O., Aug. 30, according to an announcement by Supreme Regent Wiggins. Up to date the supreme regent has received signed requests for a special meeting from 42 supreme representatives. Unless the general demand for a revision of the new rates is heeded the protesting members will probably attempt to have the matter settled in court. If the new rates are withdrawn at the special session, the question of satisfactory rates to be substituted for them will be a subject for much discussion.

The coming session will take place at the Hotel Victor and over 100 supreme representatives will attend. It is thought. The expense of the meeting will be about $12,000. The proceedings will be secret.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Smith have come from Lawrence to spend a few days at the Somerset House.

Jack MacDonald of Broadway, Lawrence, has recently been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Greene.

Mr. and Mrs. Kilfoil and family of Lawrence are domiciled for a few weeks at the McGowan cottage.

SELLING BUILDINGS ON SITE OF NEW COURT HOUSE.

Arthur A. Forness, auctioneer of Beverly, began at 10 o'clock Saturday forenoon to sell the eight buildings on Federal and Bridge streets which the county of Essex has bought in connection with the land purchased for the new court house at Salem.

The county bought five houses on Federal street and three on Bridge street. The Perkins is a boarding house now, and as it is not on a portion of the land to be used for the present, the commissioners are to give the occupant further time to find a new location, as the county is receiving $50 a month rental for the building.

The houses sold, the prices which the county paid last spring for land and buildings, and the price the houses brought are as follows: 42 Federal street, Mrs. H. C. Quarres, $900, $102; 44 Federal street William B. Upton, $600, $200; 46 Federal street, Mrs. L. F. Merrill, $700, $217; 48 Federal street, Dr. Quimby house, $11,000, $575; 247 Federal street, Kate Davis and son, $1,000, $250; 251 Bridge street, Martha L. Kelman, $400, $113; 253 Bridge street, Martha L. Roberts, $430, $86. Also the barn on Bridge street which belongs to the Quimby lot and was bought by the county as part of that estate.

The county when it bought the Quimby house, made agreement that Mrs. Quimby might have it to move away or sell at $1000, but she has not disposed of it because of the refusal of the city to permit it to be moved through North street.

There was a large audience when the sale began, men women and children being numbered among them. The barn on Bridge street was sold to Joshua Nichols for $117. It is understood that in several instances the purchases by agents is for other parties.

THE TRAMP QUESTION

Rev. Clark Carter Delivers Interesting Address at Methodist Church, Lawrence

At the Haverhill street, Methodist church Sunday City Missionary Clark Carter preached upon the tramp problem taking his text from Matthew vii: 20, "The Son of Man hath not where to lay his head."

The tramp is like our Lord Jesus in one thing. He is a homeless man. Whatever we say about him we should ever we do, or refuse to do, we must not forget that he is one of our brothers for whom Christ died, and to whom we owe a brother's love.

On one of the coldest days of December, 1903, I was sitting with a committee of the Massachusetts state conference of charities in a room of the Twenty Century club in Boston, discussing certain bills which we desired to have enacted by the legislature. The bills were intended to accomplish two objects: To bring tramps under closer observation by police authorities and to insure their having adequate protection from disease and from fire.

The tramp is like our Lord Jesus in one thing. He is a homeless man. Whatever we say about him we should ever we do, or refuse to do, we must not forget that he is one of our brothers for whom Christ died, and to whom we owe a brother's love. On one of the coldest days of December, 1903, I was sitting with a committee of the Massachusetts state conference of charities in a room of the Twenty Century club in Boston, discussing certain bills which we desired to have enacted by the legislature. The bills were intended to accomplish two objects: To bring tramps under closer observation by police authorities and to insure their having adequate protection from disease and from fire.

Why did that man seek me, and how did he find me within the committee room of the Twenty Century club? Two nights before the police of Boston had gone through the cheap lodging houses of the city and carefully scrutinized and questioned every lodger. It was just after several hold robberies and murderous assaults had occurred, and the public was demanding that dangerous men be looked up and removed from the streets.

But did not the Master bless giving? Did he not command, "Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away?" Undoubtedly. But he did not mean that we should give poison even though it were asked for so vehemently.

Are we not wise enough to discover how to give, whether to child or to neighbor, in such a way, so fitly, so discriminatingly that we shall not do harm where we mean to do a kindness? The tramp is a man who needs the help of our neighbor. The tramp has been made the subject of careful study, by philanthropic individuals and by trained officers of the commonwealth.

In 1894 a special commission on the unemployed was appointed by the order of the legislature and its report was presented on the first of January, 1895. The occasion was the great business depression from which the whole country had been suffering. Everywhere vast numbers of people who were willing to work were unable to find employment.

What is the cause? What influences conspire to make a man a tramp? These are the questions which we shall be able to find how to cure men of tramping.

1. Poverty sometimes kicks a man out of his home and turns him adrift on the world. Back to native savagery must revert the man who has neither a place to live nor a place to work. Primitive man was homeless and was nearly helpless. He could not beg, for his neighbors, if he had any, were like himself, able only to supply their own need for food. Hunt or starve, was the alternative. He hunted in the forest, or fished in stream and lake. Necessity made him keep sense and order, and he found and seized his food from nature's reluctant supplies. Modern man, thrown homeless, unfriended, and unemployed, on the world develops craft, cunning, shrewdness, and inventiveness.

2. It was the brutal cruelty of an inebriate relative which thrust Owen Kildare into New York city's streets, a homeless child. Cruelty is the frequent cause of tramp life. Owen Kildare was a native New Yorker, who had given up work and disappeared. The call of the summer air was irresistible, and the boys were unable to stay at home when out-door life was beckoning them to adventure. I also know men, who are fairly good providers for their families during the cold months when a comfortable fireside is desirable but who always become wanderers on the advent of spring. Wife and children have a hard time of it, existing on charity or becoming paupers every summer.

4. My interesting acquaintance who found me at the Twenty Century Club makes light of these causes, and insists that unjust and unwise government is responsible for the making of most tramps. He lays the blame for his own delinquencies on the influence of the training ship to which his early discipline was entrusted. The machine-like control, the lack of the personal care, which every child needs, and the poisonous familiarity with older boys more experienced in evil than himself, united to make him an enemy of society. What he says is to be given weight when we seek for a cure for tramp life.

5. But we are not to lose sight of the fact that laziness is the chief factor among the influences which keep men in the ranks of the homeless. It is not the initial cause of men taking up the tramp life, it is certainly the contributing cause. It prevents their returning to the ranks of productive labor. Without strenuous exertion they can get food, clothes and lodging; and they are not ready to put forth the additional exertion which would be needed if they returned to family life and had to get food, clothes and shelter for a wife and children, or for parents and other relatives.

This review of the causes of tramp life leads straight to the cure. We see once that whatever sent a boy or a man out on the road in the first place, his laziness is keeping him there. No man remains a tramp after he becomes convinced that the homeless life is harder than the life of regular employment. We know men who come in from their wanderings in November and help support the home till the balmy air of May invites them again to sleep in the fields. We are acquainted with others who are glad to get under cover for a while at the state farm or the state hospital. We are familiar with the story of other state institutions is too exacting, and therefore, those who commit petty crimes as to receive a sentence to the house of correction which will expire in spring or early summer. The so-called hard labor of county prisons is by the way referred to the real work of the state farm.

But there are multitudes who are better satisfied to be tramps the whole year round. If they do not migrate south for the winter they find the rigors of a northern January to be endurable, even enjoyable. They are where the doors of the wayfarer lodge, the rescue mission, the cheap lodging house, the free lunch, and their confidence in the "softness" of the average citizen has never been betrayed. They are a constant commentary on our Saviours' assurance: "Blessed are they who shall receive."

The cure for this condition of things is evident. There is no patent on it. Stop giving to tramps. Civilized man is like primitive man. He will work rather than starve. Then let the community unite in starving the tramp out of his home.

If the neighbors feed your puppy when he comes nosing around the doors, he grows up a good-for-nothing dog. He will not heed your voice nor guard your property. Therefore you politely ask your friends to withhold their alms from the homeless man who comes pawing at their feet. You want him to realize that the nicest place for him is where he belongs. Vagrancy in men is encouraged in just the same manner as is vagrancy in dogs. Both men and beasts are spoiled by inconsiderate giving.

But did not the Master bless giving? Did he not command, "Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away?" Undoubtedly. But he did not mean that we should give poison even though it were asked for so vehemently.

Are we not wise enough to discover how to give, whether to child or to neighbor, in such a way, so fitly, so discriminatingly that we shall not do harm where we mean to do a kindness? 5. But we are not to lose sight of the fact that laziness is the chief factor among the influences which keep men in the ranks of the homeless. It is not the initial cause of men taking up the tramp life, it is certainly the contributing cause. It prevents their returning to the ranks of productive labor. Without strenuous exertion they can get food, clothes and lodging; and they are not ready to put forth the additional exertion which would be needed if they returned to family life and had to get food, clothes and shelter for a wife and children, or for parents and other relatives.

This review of the causes of tramp life leads straight to the cure. We see once that whatever sent a boy or a man out on the road in the first place, his laziness is keeping him there. No man remains a tramp after he becomes convinced that the homeless life is harder than the life of regular employment. We know men who come in from their wanderings in November and help support the home till the balmy air of May invites them again to sleep in the fields. We are acquainted with others who are glad to get under cover for a while at the state farm or the state hospital. We are familiar with the story of other state institutions is too exacting, and therefore, those who commit petty crimes as to receive a sentence to the house of correction which will expire in spring or early summer. The so-called hard labor of county prisons is by the way referred to the real work of the state farm.

But there are multitudes who are better satisfied to be tramps the whole year round. If they do not migrate south for the winter they find the rigors of a northern January to be endurable, even enjoyable. They are where the doors of the wayfarer lodge, the rescue mission, the cheap lodging house, the free lunch, and their confidence in the "softness" of the average citizen has never been betrayed. They are a constant commentary on our Saviours' assurance: "Blessed are they who shall receive."

The cure for this condition of things is evident. There is no patent on it. Stop giving to tramps. Civilized man is like primitive man. He will work rather than starve. Then let the community unite in starving the tramp out of his home.

If the neighbors feed your puppy when he comes nosing around the doors, he grows up a good-for-nothing dog. He will not heed your voice nor guard your property. Therefore you politely ask your friends to withhold their alms from the homeless man who comes pawing at their feet. You want him to realize that the nicest place for him is where he belongs. Vagrancy in men is encouraged in just the same manner as is vagrancy in dogs. Both men and beasts are spoiled by inconsiderate giving.

But did not the Master bless giving? Did he not command, "Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away?" Undoubtedly. But he did not mean that we should give poison even though it were asked for so vehemently.

Are we not wise enough to discover how to give, whether to child or to neighbor, in such a way, so fitly, so discriminatingly that we shall not do harm where we mean to do a kindness? The tramp is a man who needs the help of our neighbor. The tramp has been made the subject of careful study, by philanthropic individuals and by trained officers of the commonwealth.

In 1894 a special commission on the unemployed was appointed by the order of the legislature and its report was presented on the first of January, 1895. The occasion was the great business depression from which the whole country had been suffering. Everywhere vast numbers of people who were willing to work were unable to find employment.

What is the cause? What influences conspire to make a man a tramp? These are the questions which we shall be able to find how to cure men of tramping.

1. Poverty sometimes kicks a man out of his home and turns him adrift on the world. Back to native savagery must revert the man who has neither a place to live nor a place to work. Primitive man was homeless and was nearly helpless. He could not beg, for his neighbors, if he had any, were like himself, able only to supply their own need for food. Hunt or starve, was the alternative. He hunted in the forest, or fished in stream and lake. Necessity made him keep sense and order, and he found and seized his food from nature's reluctant supplies. Modern man, thrown homeless, unfriended, and unemployed, on the world develops craft, cunning, shrewdness, and inventiveness.

sets has enacted certain laws touching the matter, which are calculated to give the decent man who is really looking for work, an opportunity by which he can go from place to place retaining his self respect, but which at the same time will prove uncomfortable to lazy men and criminals. By one law the application of the Bertillon system of measurements may be used in the description and identification of persons committed under sentence as vagrants. This will discourage the criminal, who is wanted for a notorious misdeed from hiding under an assumed name as a tramp in some county house of correction until the noise of his great wrong going has been silenced.

By another law cheap lodging houses, to which this class of men resort, are required to have a license, and are made subject to visitation by the police without warrant. It makes it less easy for a bad man to hide himself behind the screen of poverty, and at the same time it
